CIA Admits To Misdeeds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA's own accounting to President Ford acknowledges some domestic misdeeds but contains few major differences from the findings of the Rockefeller Commission.

Like the Rockefeller report, the CIA document, which was delivered to the President last December and made public late Tuesday night, contains no evidence on the subject of alleged plots to kill foreign leaders.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that Richard M. Nixon, who reportedly refused to testify before the Rockefeller panel, now faces possible questioning by the Senate intelligence committee about assassination plots and other alleged agency wrongdoing.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Tuesday the committee would contact Nixon's lawyer about testifying.

"At this time we have no reason to believe that his testimony will be very important in connection with the assassination issue" but the committee would "have good reason to approach Mr. Nixon" about such subjects as illegal intelligence gathering, Church said.

The Senate panel on Tuesday questioned retired Maj. Gen. Edward G. Lansdale about his role in CIA covert operations against the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro. Lansdale, who declined to speak with reporters, has been quoted on two occasions as saying that, while working on orders from the White House, he drew up contingency plans for the removal of Castro by any means, including assassination.

CIA director William E. Colby's report on domestic wrongdoing, which has come to be known as the "Vail Report" because it was delivered to the President while he was on a Christmas skiing vacation in Vail, Colo., outlines essentially the same instances of domestic surveillance documented by the Rockefeller Commission. The report, consisting of a six-page letter and 58 pages of documents, refers to two programs not mentioned in the Rockefeller report — recruitment of construction workers as informants during construction in the early 1960s of CIA headquarters at Langley, Va., and infiltration of agents into the former Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, presumably for counterintelligence purposes.

The Vail report makes no mention of a program described by the Rockefeller Commission in which for a six-month period in 1973 the CIA monitored long-distance telephone calls between the United States and Latin America in an effort to identify narcotics traffickers.

Both reports were prepared for the President in response to allegations published by the New York Times that the CIA had conducted a massive illegal spy campaign against anti-war activists and other dissidents.

Colby assured the President that the agency was not guilty of massive domestic wrongdoing while the Rockefeller report said that, although the majority of CIA domestic activities were within the law, the agency also conducted a number of "plainly unlawful" activities which "constituted improper invasions upon the rights of Americans."

Garnes To Leave Job With OPEC

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — William E. Garnes will leave his job as coordinator of the Ohio Public Employees Compensation Board Saturday to become an area director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Garnes was administrator of the Bureau of Employment Services during the administration of former Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Small-City Mayors Fight Plan Change

BOSTON (AP) — Republicans and mayors from smaller and western cities are determined to prevent big-city Democrats from putting a national mayors conference on record in favor of increasing the revenue sharing money given to poorer cities.

Some 350 mayors will debate their formal position on revenue sharing and dozens of other urban issues today at the final session of the U.S. Conference of Mayors annual meeting. The positions taken today will determine what the conference, representing cities over 30,000 population, will lobby for in the next year.

It was expected that the big-city Democrats will fail to get full conference support for a resolution approved in committee demanding that need be a greater factor in distributing revenue sharing funds. There were four reasons for this:

—Republican mayors have offered to join in endorsing a $2-billion emergency antirecession aid bill, opposed by the Ford administration, if the Democrats agree to accept the current revenue sharing distribution formula in pressing for renewal of the program.

—The most influential advocate of the "greater need" factor, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, had already returned home before today's session began.

—Governors, county officials and Ford administration representatives have warned repeatedly that any effort to tinker with the formula could destroy the coalition that favors renewing the five-year program, which expires next year.

—The incoming president of the conference, Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans, and Vice President Kenneth A. Gibson of Newark, N.J., both have indicated they are willing to submerge their personal support for a "greater need" factor to the practical political considerations of getting the renewal approved by Congress this year.

The expiring $30.2-billion federal revenue-sharing program has been the first federal aid that states and cities could use however they wanted. While it was long a major goal of this conference, some mayors have been galled by the amount of money received in small cities relatively untouched by urban problems and in the newer and more financially healthy cities of the southwest.

Meanwhile more than 75 members of a Boston antibusing group led by councilwoman Louise Day Hicks occupied Boston Mayor Kevin H. White's suite on the 29th floor of the hotel where the mayors were meeting. They arrived Tuesday night and vowed to stay until White agreed to introduce a resolution at the mayors' conference advocating a constitutional amendment against busing.

White did not respond to them immediately. The mayors have carefully avoided taking a stand on busing since an unsuccessful effort was made to put them on the record at their 1972 conference.

Ohio Malpractice Measure To Get Panel's Approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A subcommittee of the Senate Elections, Financial Institutions, and Insurance Committee is expected to recommend approval today of a revised bill aimed at dealing with Ohio's medical malpractice insurance problems.

The panel began considering nearly two dozen proposed amendments Tuesday night after hearing extensive testimony the past two weeks from members of the medical, legal, and insurance professions.

Left unchanged by the subcommittee was language that leaves up to the Ohio Supreme Court the matter of setting limits on fees attorneys could charge for representing clients in malpractice lawsuits.

A fee schedule put into the bill by the House Insurance Committee was deleted on the House floor following intensive lobbying by trial lawyers.

The subcommittee's version of the bill, if approved, still must go before the full Senate committee. Sponsors said they hope to have the measure ready for Senate floor action next week.

In other action, the House Commerce and Labor Committee was deluged with witnesses as it sought to begin final consideration of an embattled public employee collective bargaining bill.

With about 200 persons crowded into the hearing room, the committee heard state spokesmen for Parent Teacher Associations express their concerns about the bill. They objected primarily to language that would provide for disputes involving educational matters to be submitted to binding arbitration.

Mrs. Millie Waterman of Mentor, said PTA members don't object to third party arbitration as long as the arbiter's decisions are made public.

"But all final decisions must be made by the public's elected representatives on the local boards of education," she said.

About 100 members of PTAs from 12 school districts in the Cincinnati area supported Mrs. Waterman's statement.

She also questioned the wisdom of permitting teachers and school employees to strike, as the bill would do, and predicted it would "erode local control of education and sanction disruptions of the educational process."

Chairman J. Leonard Camera, D-53 Lorain, said he hopes the committee can complete action on the Senate-passed measure within the next week. But he said serious problems remain, and "time is running out."

The legislature is expected to adjourn for the year around the first of August.

The Lorain County lawmaker said one major problem involves employees of mass transit systems taken over by cities in recent years. Their closed shop union contracts, making union membership a condition of employment, were continued when the systems changed from private to public ownership, he said.

As now written, the bill prohibits closed shops. Camera said exemptions for transit workers is one alternative under consideration.

Substitute Parents Needed At County's Group Homes

By ANDREA PORTER
Journalism Intern

Are there any mature couples in Circleville who are interested in the lives of young people? Oscar Burchfield, executive secretary of the Childrens Service Board, is looking for couples to manage the group homes for juveniles.

Burchfield said these homes have been running for about five years, and they never had this much trouble trying to find someone to take care of the children. "With the unemployment rate as high as it is, I would think people would be grabbing at the chance for some extra money," he said.

The couple's job would be taking care of these dependant or neglected children in a home-like atmosphere. They would supervise the home, just like parents. The job includes cooking, housekeeping and disciplining.

"The one big advantage of this job," Burchfield said, "is that the parent can work on another job as in a regular family."

The group homes house boys and girls that have been delinquent or rejected by their parents. They are usually sent to the home on the request of the court or parent. The boy's home is located on S. Court St., while the girl's residence is on E. Main St.

Burchfield said they need a "parent figure," preferably a married couple, but a single person may have the same qualifications. The Childrens Service Board trains the couple and sends them to any special workshops during the time they stay with the children.

The "substitute parent" lives with the children, works five days with two days off each week either during the week or on the weekend.

Because of lack of full-time employes, Burchfield said they are now operating with two shifts. It isn't the ideal situation for the children, and it is more expensive to operate.

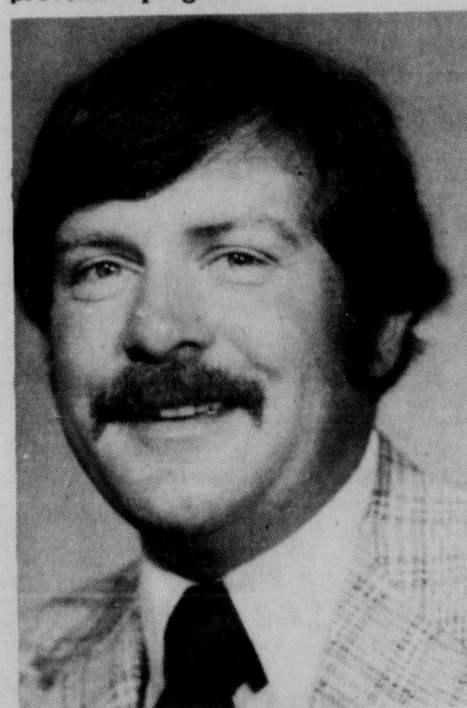

The group home may not continue if the employment problem isn't solved, Burchfield said. The homes are ideal for the children, and are not as expensive to run as a children's home. The group homes operate for $17,000 each per year, while a children's home would cost about $75,000 per year.

If anyone is interested in finding out more about this job, he or she may contact Burchfield at 137½ W. Franklin St. or call 474-2529.

Musselman Heads Farm Bureau Attack On Crime

Ned Musselman, a native of Pickaway County, began work Monday coordinating the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation's rural crime prevention program.

NED MUSSELMAN

The five-point pilot plan, which is scheduled to last for a year, is aimed at updating the Neighborhood Watch program in a concentrated effort to reduce crime in rural areas by both direct and indirect action.

The plan includes "hardening the target," making it more difficult to commit crimes in rural areas by installing security lights, locks on buildings, and identifying personal property.

He also hopes to develop more cooperation with present activities of the Neighborhood Watch program by putting together a system that is effective and then completing an evaluation of the efforts.

Another aspect of the program is renewed cooperation with the criminal justice system and better communications between law enforcement officers and the courts.

But the main thrust of the program is dealing with young people, who, studies have shown, are mostly responsible for crimes and vandalism in rural areas.

Musselman hopes to establish an educational unit for high school students in an effort to change their attitudes about committing crimes.

He also hopes to start a youth activity program that would provide counseling and employment services through a Youth Activity Center.

Musselman, born in Pickaway County Sept. 2, 1943, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Musselman, who still reside in the Pickaway Twp. farm of his youth.

He attended Pickaway Twp. School for 11 years, graduating from Logan Elm High School in 1961, the first year of the consolidated school.

While in high school, he participated in many 4-H projects and earned the BPO Elks award as the outstanding high school senior in the area.

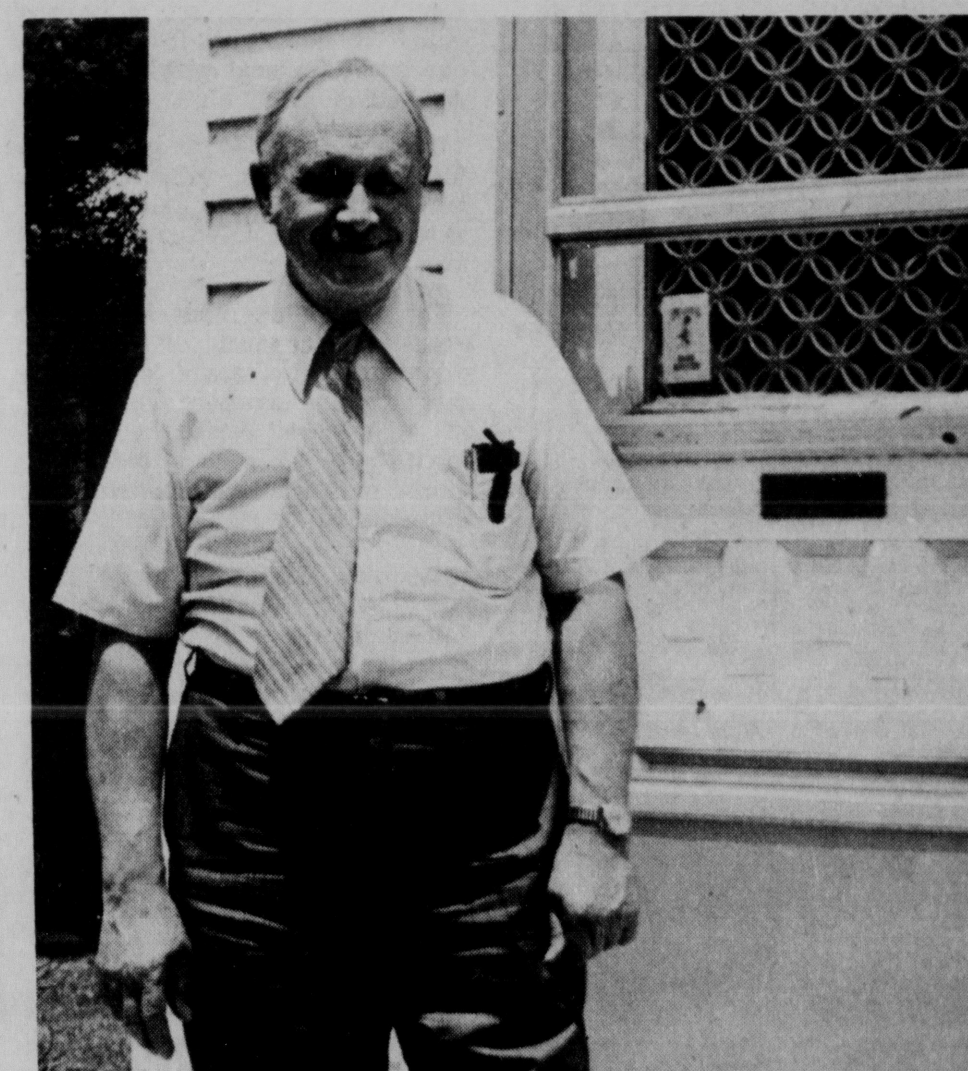

He received a BS degree in rural sociology from Ohio State University in 1966 and studied at Franklin Law School while working part-time at the Ohio Title Corp.

He served in the United States Air Force from 1968 to 1972, working as an education and training supervisor in Vietnam.

From 1972 to 1974, he served as escrow officer for the Ohio Title Corp., and he was district sales manager for the Ohio Harvestore, Inc., of Marysville.

Musselman and his wife Judy have one child, Jennifer, 3. They live at 3557 Walnut Creek Dr., Columbus.

He succeeds Lowell Ridenour, who left the Farm Bureau to become assistant director of the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction.

OPEN DOOR—Oscar Burchfield, executive secretary of the Childrens Services Board, would like to see a qualified couple standing in his place outside of the Girl's Group Home on E. Main St.

Sugar Price Hike Likely To Be Small

By LOUISE COOK

Rising prices for raw sugar may mean consumers will pay more for the sweetener they stir in their iced tea and sprinkle on their fruit this summer. But the experts do not anticipate anything like last year's sharp increase.

Two major refiners said Monday that they were boosting their charges for grocery sugar — the kind they sell to supermarkets. It was the first increase since last November and followed 15 price decreases.

The move put the wholesale price of sugar at about 26 cents a pound or $1.30 for a fivepound sack. The amount and timing of any increase at the retail level depends on several factors, in-

Tax Credit Fails To Hike Home Buying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the appeal of a $2,000 tax credit, new home sales still are insufficient to bring about a major reduction in the nation's big backlog of unsold homes, a government agency says.

As a result, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board concludes that any real boom in construction of either single-family housing or multi-family dwellings "is a long way off."

The board said Tuesday the tax credit that took effect in late March appears to have had a weak impact on the inventory of unsold homes, in part because new housing starts are relatively high compared to sales.

The board said sales increased 11,000 in April compared to March but the inventory of unsold single-family homes declined only 7,000 units to a total of 380,000 homes in April, the month the program should have had its greatest impact, it said.

An analyst for the board, which regulates savings and loan associations, said the April backlog of homes was equal to about 8.1 months of sales. That was a high figure, though an improvement from previous months, he said. Figures for May were not yet available, though new housing starts in that month increased 14.2 per cent over April's total.

The sales situation for multifamily dwellings, such as condominiums, is even worse, he said.

Congress enacted the $2,000 tax credit in March — as part of the 1975 tax reduction program — at the urging of Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La. The purpose was to help home builders unload their huge backlog of homes and to get the depressed housing industry back on its feet.

In its simplest terms, the credit is equal to 5 per cent of the purchase price of a new home, with a maximum credit of $2,000. To qualify, a home must have been under construction before March 26 of this year, and the purchase must be made between March 12 and Dec. 31.

Homebuyers can take the credit by deducting it next spring from their 1975 tax bill.

Bicentennial Coins Sent To Collectors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One million sets of special bicentennial proof coins have been shipped to collectors all over the country in grand fashion, bringing the U.S. Postal Service $500,000 in postage.

U.S. Mint and Postal officials teamed up last weekend in what officials said was the largest single shipment of registered mail ever made. They mailed 350,000 packages containing 1.1 million sets of the proof coins—a dollar, half-dollar and quarter in a special mirror-like finish and selling for $12 a set.

The sets traveled in government-franked envelopes, without postage, but Bureau of the Mint paid the postal service the registered mail cost of about $1.50 each.

The coins were made in the San Francisco Mint which will continue to ship the sets at a rate of 35,000 a day until all orders have been filled. So far, 2.6 million proof sets have been ordered, plus 1.5 million orders for special mint sets that cost less, mint officials said.

The coins bear two dates, "1776-1976," and they could not be distributed before July 4. As the coins were manufactured they were packed in individual cardboard cartons, addressed by computer, sorted by zip code and then placed in giant locked metal containers that were to travel as airmail on regularly scheduled flights.

Then Saturday, a staff of about 30 postal clerks accepted the metal containers as registered mail and dispatched them from San Francisco.

Across the country, air carriers and local postal officials were alerted, and extra care was taken on receipt. Officials said most of the sets were received by Tuesday.

Distribution of regular bicentennial coins for ordinary use already was under way.

cluding the amount of lower-priced sugar the stores have in stock and whether they are willing to risk the wrath of consumers who boycotted sugar last fall when prices skyrocketed.

The refiners said the price they pay for sugar had gone up, although it remained well below what it was a year ago. The price of raw cane sugar on the New York market was 17 cents a pound at the start of this week, up three-fourths of a cent from the end of last week.

A year ago, the same sugar sold for 26 cents a pound and by the start of last November, prices had gone up to 60 or so cents a pound.

Fred Gray of the Economic Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday he did not think the new increase was the start of another price spiral.

"The price might go up some, but it would seem to be temporary," he said.

Gray said one factor in the increase might be recent rains in the upper Midwest which hurt the sugar beet crop. But he said he did not expect the kind of worldwide shortage that there was last year.

"Based on available supplies, there is no reason for the price to go up that high," Gray said, referring to last year's increases.

He warned, however, that if people in the sugar industry believe there might be a shortage — whether real or imagined — the price could jump temporarily.

Court Holds One Hearing

One appearance was made in Common Pleas Court this morning. Robert M. Levan, 504 S. Washington St., was sentenced on a charge of aggravated assault.

He had originally been charged with felonious assault but the charge was reduced during an earlier court hearing.

Judge William Ammer sentenced him to a term of 2-5 years at the Mansfield Reformatory for Men and then suspended the prison term and placed Levan on probation for five years.

The court also sentenced Levan to a term of 21 days in the Pickaway County Jail.

Marijuana Sentences Attacked

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The length of prison sentences for violating marijuana laws in Ohio constitute "cruel and unusual" punishment, according to a decision by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appellate court, in an opinion handed down last week, noted that all punishments are subject to the requirement that they be proportionate to the offense for which they are administered.

At issue were sentences to a first-offender, Edward L. Downey of 10 to 20 years imprisonment for possession for sale of marijuana and 20 to 40 years for sale of marijuana. He was arrested Dec. 3, 1969 and found guilty by a jury in the Court of Common Pleas of Cuyahoga County.

The appellate court agreed with Downey's claim that the length of imprisonment imposed can be a requisite for determining "cruel and unusual" punishment.

Downey, of Cleveland, claimed that Ohio's 20-year minimum penalty upon conviction for sale of marijuana is the most severe punishment for this offense imposed by any state.

The court noted that one other state provides a 10-year minimum, five a minimum of five years, and 28 states have minimum fines with no imprisonment.

Trading Restrictions Under Fire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An Ohio Farm Bureau official told a federal government panel here Tuesday that international trading restrictions do not benefit anyone in the long run.

Raymond R. Casey, the bureau's director for research and development, called for trading interdependence among nations and close cooperation among government agencies to maximize trade.

The hearing was one of several being held around the country by a panel of trade negotiations representatives appointed by President Ford to determine public feelings about this country's import-export policies.

Ohio exported nearly $560 million in farm commodities in 1974, ranking it among the top 10 states in the export of feed grains, soybeans, protein meal, nonprocessed tobacco, soybean oil and dairy products.

"Only through relatively free and open trade among nations can consumers and producers . . . have the hope of improving their standard of living and positively contributing to the welfare of mankind," Casey said.

Ohio 'Sunshine Law' Hearings Opened

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House hearings are under way on legislation to give Ohio a "sunshine law," which bans state and local government agencies from conducting their business in secret.

Barbara Gensemer, a director of the Ohio League of Women Voters, extended that group's support for the Senate-passed measure Tuesday night to the House State Government Committee.

She said the proposal represents "a clear statement of legislative intent that all deliberations on official business be conducted in public meetings," and as such will answer questions raised in the future by public officials or in the courts.

Mrs. Gensemer cited examples of closed meetings which she said currently are held by various elective bodies around the state.

Among them were Lucas County and Marion County commissioners, the Bowling Green School Board, the school board and city recreation board in Shaker Heights which she said combine for closed meetings, the Ashtabula City Council and the Lake County Transit Authority.

"The Painesville City Council explains its occasional closed meetings by saying they are 'discussing personalities,'" the league representative told the committee.

She added that "maximum public trust and confidence in governmental policies, as well as full public participation, depend upon the accessibility of the entire process to full public scrutiny."

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton, besides banning closed sessions as contrary to public policy, goes further by declaring invalid any actions taken by a public agency in executive session. Officials who violate an injunction ordering open meetings could be removed from office by a court, under another provision.

There is one key exception in the measure. It permits closed political caucuses, a common legislative practice which Freeman indicated had to be protected in order to get the measure through the Senate.

Also present at the initial House hearing for proponents were representatives of the Ohio School Boards Association, the Ohio Newspaper Association, and the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio.

Trio Eludes Car Owner

Thieves who eluded the owner of a vehicle they took from in front of his N. Court St. home may have stopped to steal a license plate from another car on Montclair Ave., according to Circleville Police Sgt. Larry Pontious.

Three men allegedly entered the locked 1968 Ford Torino owned by Jerry Long, 508 N. Court St., about 1:15 a.m. Wednesday and hot-wired the ignition to steal the vehicle.

Long, who saw the car drive away north on Court St., gave chase in another vehicle, but could not locate the thieves.

Sgt. Pontious believes the trio drove the two blocks to Montclair Ave. and ripped the rear license plate from a car owned by Rudolf Chelickowsky, 160 Montclair Ave.

The license plate, Y-1644, was reported stolen later in the morning.

Long's car, green in color with black stripes, has a license plate number of X-16987. It is valued at $700.

They mailed 350,000 packages containing 1.1 million sets of the proof coins—a dollar, half-dollar and quarter in a special mirror-like finish and selling for $12 a set.

The sets traveled in government-franked envelopes, without postage, but Bureau of the Mint paid the postal service the registered mail cost of about $1.50 each.

The coins were made in the San Francisco Mint which will continue to ship the sets at a rate of 35,000 a day until all orders have been filled. So far, 2.6 million proof sets have been ordered, plus 1.5 million orders for special mint sets that cost less, mint officials said.

The coins bear two dates, "1776-1976," and they could not be distributed before July 4. As the coins were manufactured they were packed in individual cardboard cartons, addressed by computer, sorted by zip code and then placed in giant locked metal containers that were to travel as airmail on regularly scheduled flights.

Then Saturday, a staff of about 30 postal clerks accepted the metal containers as registered mail and dispatched them from San Francisco.

Across the country, air carriers and local postal officials were alerted, and extra care was taken on receipt. Officials said most of the sets were received by Tuesday.

Distribution of regular bicentennial coins for ordinary use already was under way.

Court Holds One Hearing

One appearance was made in Common Pleas Court this morning. Robert M. Levan, 504 S. Washington St., was sentenced on a charge of aggravated assault.

He had originally been charged with felonious assault but the charge was reduced during an earlier court hearing.

Judge William Ammer sentenced him to a term of 2-5 years at the Mansfield Reformatory for Men and then suspended the prison term and placed Levan on probation for five years.

The court also sentenced Levan to a term of 21 days in the Pickaway County Jail.

Marijuana Sentences Attacked

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The length of prison sentences for violating marijuana laws in Ohio constitute "cruel and unusual" punishment, according to a decision by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appellate court, in an opinion handed down last week, noted that all punishments are subject to the requirement that they be proportionate to the offense for which they are administered.

At issue were sentences to a first-offender, Edward L. Downey of 10 to 20 years imprisonment for possession for sale of marijuana and 20 to 40 years for sale of marijuana. He was arrested Dec. 3, 1969 and found guilty by a jury in the Court of Common Pleas of Cuyahoga County.

The appellate court agreed with Downey's claim that the length of imprisonment imposed can be a requisite for determining "cruel and unusual" punishment.

Downey, of Cleveland, claimed that Ohio's 20-year minimum penalty upon conviction for sale of marijuana is the most severe punishment for this offense imposed by any state.

The court noted that one other state provides a 10-year minimum, five a minimum of five years, and 28 states have minimum fines with no imprisonment.

Trading Restrictions Under Fire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An Ohio Farm Bureau official told a federal government panel here Tuesday that international trading restrictions do not benefit anyone in the long run.

Raymond R. Casey, the bureau's director for research and development, called for trading interdependence among nations and close cooperation among government agencies to maximize trade.

The hearing was one of several being held around the country by a panel of trade negotiations representatives appointed by President Ford to determine public feelings about this country's import-export policies.

Ohio exported nearly $560 million in farm commodities in 1974, ranking it among the top 10 states in the export of feed grains, soybeans, protein meal, nonprocessed tobacco, soybean oil and dairy products.

"Only through relatively free and open trade among nations can consumers and producers . . . have the hope of improving their standard of living and positively contributing to the welfare of mankind," Casey said.

Ohio 'Sunshine Law' Hearings Opened

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House hearings are under way on legislation to give Ohio a "sunshine law," which bans state and local government agencies from conducting their business in secret.

Barbara Gensemer, a director of the Ohio League of Women Voters, extended that group's support for the Senate-passed measure Tuesday night to the House State Government Committee.

She said the proposal represents "a clear statement of legislative intent that all deliberations on official business be conducted in public meetings," and as such will answer questions raised in the future by public officials or in the courts.

Mrs. Gensemer cited examples of closed meetings which she said currently are held by various elective bodies around the state.

Among them were Lucas County and Marion County commissioners, the Bowling Green School Board, the school board and city recreation board in Shaker Heights which she said combine for closed meetings, the Ashtabula City Council and the Lake County Transit Authority.

"The Painesville City Council explains its occasional closed meetings by saying they are 'discussing personalities'," the league representative told the committee.

She added that "maximum public trust and confidence in governmental policies, as well as full public participation, depend upon the accessibility of the entire process to full public scrutiny."

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton, besides banning closed sessions as contrary to public policy, goes further by declaring invalid any actions taken by a public agency in executive session. Officials who violate an injunction ordering open meetings could be removed from office by a court, under another provision.

There is one key exception in the measure. It permits closed political caucuses, a common legislative practice which Freeman indicated had to be protected in order to get the measure through the Senate.

Also present at the initial House hearing for proponents were representatives of the Ohio School Boards Association, the Ohio Newspaper Association, and the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio.

Trio Eludes Car Owner

Thieves who eluded the owner of a vehicle they took from in front of his N. Court St. home may have stopped to steal a license plate from another car on Montclair Ave., according to Circleville Police Sgt. Larry Pontious.

Three men allegedly entered the locked 1968 Ford Torino owned by Jerry Long, 508 N. Court St., about 1:15 a.m. Wednesday and hot-wired the ignition to steal the vehicle.

Long, who saw the car drive away north on Court St., gave chase in another vehicle, but could not locate the thieves.

Sgt. Pontious believes the trio drove the two blocks to Montclair Ave. and ripped the rear license plate from a car owned by Rudolf Chelickowsky, 160 Montclair Ave.

The license plate, Y-1644, was reported stolen later in the morning.

Long's car, green in color with black stripes, has a license plate number of X-16987. It is valued at $700.

Positive Conservation

Conservationists frequently voice criticism of man-made interferences in the natural scheme of things which threaten to destroy wildlife. They serve a good purpose by drawing attention to these intrusions.

But a word of caution might be in order. More important than sympathy from the heart are positive examples of conservation which will guarantee the future of fauna in a world inhabited by man.

Conservation measures to insure species threatened by man's thoughtfulness have a chance to recover through reproduction will achieve greater results than trying to remove the influence of man from the natural environment.

Man is here to stay. Whether the bird and animal kingdoms can survive depends not upon the chance accidents and thoughtless deeds of man, but upon the positive help given feathered and furry creatures in their desperate fight for survival.

Left-Behind Legacy

The woman sat behind the desk tapping the I.D. card on her fingers. "I don't know," she said with an edge of regret. "That house hasn't been opened in five or six years." The man with the edge of gray seemed disappointed. "It would mean a lot," he said. "A great deal."

She looked at the card again. "The 'For Sale' sign blew down last winter. We tried to keep it on our lists, but it's too big and too old for people today." "It was old when I was a little boy," he said. The woman realtor beckoned him to her car in the parking lot. He smiled. She noticed that a few teeth were missing. The deep crevices in his face matched his hair.

She drove in a breathing silence out the main road and on up into the green hills. "You weren't at the funeral," she said. He was waiting for this. "I've been away fifteen years," he said.

"Are you a sailor?" He shook his head. "Just been away," he said. She decided he must have been in prison. The cheap suit looked like something given to a man on freedom day. Mrs. Ogleshorpe had a touch of diplomacy. She wouldn't mention it.

"You won't find anything in the house," she said. "Just a few sticks here and there." "I know," he said. She drove on up to the private driveway and put the car in low gear for the steep climb.

The car skidded on round sandy stones. She yanked the emergency brake hard. "Here it is," she said. They got out. He drank the old house with rheumy brown eyes.

This was what was left of childhood. He traced the huge porch which ran around three sides of the house. Shutters hung loose on the second floor like sleepy eyelids. Slowly, he walked to the front of the house.

Far below were the brown dirt roads, the military rows of growing corn, the rusty railroad whose call he had heard in a lonesome nighttime wall of whistles.

It was all so very long ago; a fretful dream perhaps. He heard the key turn in the front door and his throat narrowed to a rasp as he said: "Thank you. Thank you very much."

Someone had left the ornate umbrella stand and the chased mirror in the center hall. He ran his fingers over it and traced old dust. Now his eyes were bright as though an ancient joy was upon him.

"See?" she said. "There is nothing left." He nodded as he walked into the huge square living room. "My mother kept the big grand piano over there," he said pointing. "She wanted light from two directions."

Mrs. Ogleshorpe sighed. "After the funeral," she said, "your brother and sister came back." "I know," he said. "They took everything they wanted." "I know," he said. "I know. But my mother left something for me."

She was sorry. There was nothing left. He moved about the rooms, touching walls, looking for pale patches on the floor where cabinets and closets once stood. They went upstairs slowly, the man feeling the walnut banister down which he had slid as a boisterous child.

He spoke with excitement, but liplessly and soft in the manner of a man accustomed not to speak until he was told. He knew the several bedrooms before he reached them. When he reached the master bedroom in front his approach was almost shy.

"My father kept his medical bag next to the bed," he said. "He didn't like to disturb mother when the late calls came." "But it's all empty," she said. "What they didn't take, we gave to the Salvation Army."

"No, no," he said sharply. "It's all here. Don't say empty, please. My mother's gift must be in here." Mrs. Ogleshorpe was sorry she had agreed to open the old place. This man could be dangerous.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When the economy was a full year into recession, some of the self-acknowledged experts were still debating whether there was a recession at all.

Now that there are definite signs that the recession is hitting bottom, and in some instances even rebounding a bit, some of the same observers are declaring the nation's troubles over.

The tendency is not limited to a few commentators, nor does it seem to be related to a person's station in life, other than for employment and politics. If you are employed you can afford to be optimistic; if your party is in power, you must be.

Alan Greenspan, the chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers comments that for all practical purposes the recession is over, while AFL-CIO head George Meany is agnostic at between 7.9 million and 8.5 million jobless.

Headline writers tend to get in the swing of things. So do those who conduct polls and surveys. So do the hucksters who want to spur sales.

Consumer confidence, as measured by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center, rebounded "sharply" in May. But note: It still resides at one of the lowest levels in three decades.

The results for May, said the authors of the study, remain "below the lowest point reached in any previous post-World War II recession." The recovery, therefore, "will be somewhat slow, rather than fast."

The National Association of Purchasing Management, a trade group, surveyed its members and found what is described as a surge of new orders. But the news really wasn't all that good.

The survey shows that 33 per cent reported increases in new orders during June, but that 20 per cent showed declines. Several areas of weakness were noted, in publishing, lumber, furniture and steel.

The nation's farms are expected to produce record harvests, and this might well be the case. But does this automatically mean lower food prices, as some expect, or instead will we be fed explanations of how drought or flood or blight or distribution problems aborted the high hopes?

Probably more important, will high oil prices disrupt the plans and forecasts? The situation is unstable from almost any perspective.

Without sufficient oil the U.S. economy cannot operate effectively or remain under control. And yet, there is a basic conflict between the country's energy policy and its economic policy.

That is, the country wants to put its under-utilized plants and idle workers to productive use, while at the same time trying to discourage, through high prices, the use of energy.

The existence of that high jobless rate, discouraging in itself, will also tend to hold back the economy. With the nation's labor force in excess of 90 million workers, a jobless rate of 7.5 per cent would mean close to seven million workers idle, unable to produce or to some extent, even consume.

Representative business and professional men of Circleville and farmers of all parts of Pickaway County attended the public meeting concerning the proposed Lake Erie to Ohio River canal project. Several local men volunteered services to secure memberships to further the project.

The Berger Hospital staff as reported by Safety Director Wallace Crist consisted of a superintendent, obstetrical nurse, night supervisor, general duty nurse, ward nurse and janitor.

The auditor issued findings for recovery against George M. Fisher, former water and sewer superintendent, $6,117; William E. Kreider, former chief of police, $3,538, and firemen Ernest W. Anderson, $3,079; Marshall A. Marlott, $2,721, and Gerald Wallace, $2,048.

The auditor said the accumulated sick leave was paid under a 1971 city ordinance adopted by Coshocton City Council.

The auditor said the city council did not have statutory power to pass the ordinance, making the payments illegal.

In other audits released today: —Former Fayette County Prosecutor Otis R. Hess Jr., was ordered to repay $2,013 in county funds used for unauthorized expenditures. The money was used for office furniture and excessive overtime among other expenses, the auditor said.

—Custodians of student activity funds in a number of Massillon schools were ordered to reimburse the school funds for unauthorized expenditures totaling $6,300, including lunches and dinners for teachers, staff personnel, school board members and guests.

The largest finding was levied against Vivian Snowberger of Washington High School for $3,745 spent for a private audit of the school's activity fund. The state auditor called the expenditure an unnecessary duplication of his office.

—The Nardie Construction Co. was ordered to repay $7,773 to the City of Bellaire in Belmont County. The auditor said the firm was paid $353,145 on a $345,372 contract. The audit did not identify the construction project.

There are at least six mountain peaks in the Antarctica which are more than 13,000 feet high.

Corn averages 45 inches high in Indiana, more than double the height at this time in 1974.

However, a week of hot, dry weather has caused some scattered damage.

Specialists said corn shows some signs of stress from deficient topsoil moisture, but it isn't critical yet.

The problem is mainly with corn. Soybeans are more resistant to the heat stress.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our 24-year-old son was rejected for insurance because he had abnormally high blood pressure. The day after the examination his own doctor took his blood pressure and it was normal. Does this mean that he will never be able to apply for insurance again?

Mr. and Mrs. T.R.U., Ohio

Dear Mr. and Mrs. U.:

It is a common experience for the blood pressure to rise to abnormally high levels during periods of emotional stress and tension.

Anxiety and nervousness during a physical examination can produce wide fluctuations in blood pressure. This is especially true when the blood pressure reading is taken by a strange doctor.

The fact that the blood pressure was normal when taken by his own doctor indicates that no basic problem exists in your son's case. Nevertheless, a complete examination, including kidney function tests, if suggested by your doctor, should be done to make sure that there is no underlying problem.

Insurance companies are aware of temporary rises in blood pressure under stressful conditions. In the absence of any underlying disease there is no reason to assume that your son will be permanently rejected.

Is a painful spur of the heel a form of arthritis? What can be done to relieve the pain?

Mr. G.Z., N.J.

Dear Mr. Z.:

Spurs are not generally considered to be arthritic in nature. They are deposits of calcium in the tendons and muscles of the heel.

They are frequently seen in people who are subjected to repeated injury. Athletes and professional dancers are prone to these painful spurs.

The pain can be relieved by protecting the heel with foam rubber sponges. The use of cortisone has been effective in some cases.

Surgery for the removal of spurs can be helpful in selected cases.

Use Of Drugs On Horses Would Be Banned In Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State representatives were slated to vote today on an emergency bill setting stiff penalties for use of drugs on horse and ponies entered in pull contests at state and county fairs.

Dr. Harry Goldstein, animal industries division chief in the Department of Agriculture, said the problem was illustrated by discovery that nine of eleven horses in competition at the 1974 Ohio State Fair had been "stimulated."

Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perryburg, the bill's sponsor, said similar incidents had been reported in Wood County and at other expositions in the northwestern part of the state.

Goldstein said the legislation, which could become effective in time for county fairs getting under way soon, would set penalties for use of drugs for the first time. "Now, all we can do is kick them off the grounds and tell them not to come back," he said.

Kurfess' bill sets the penalty and a fine up to $1,000 and six months imprisonment. It would not apply to racing horses already overseen by the state Racing Commission, or to other animals.

Goldstein, who functions as the state veterinarian, said the bill, as originally written, would have applied to other animals and precluded the possibility of them being treated when they became ill while at the fairs.

He said his main concern, in addition to "side bets" by those using drugs to stimulate their animals, is for the spectators. "Some of those horses were pretty well stimulated" at the state fair last year, he said.

Goldstein said the department currently has rules against the use of drugs, but that the law provides for no penalties. If Kurfess' bill is approved by the legislature and Gov. James A. Rhodes, it could be in use this summer.

The county fair season gets under way July 16 in Carroll County. Dates for the 1975 Ohio State Fair are Aug. 21 through Sept. 1.

2 Indicted For Theft

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — A seven-month investigation into the Warren County Water Department has culminated in the secret indictment of two former employees for theft in office.

The identities of the men, named by the county grand jury Tuesday, have not been released pending return of the warrants for their arrest, but arrangements are expected to be held Friday in Common Pleas Court here, according to Prosecutor Morris Turkelson.

The investigation began last December when county commissioners discovered alleged credit card and other abuses in the department and temporarily closed it. Four employees were subsequently dismissed and two of those four reportedly were the men indicted.

Seven of the charges were against one man and one against the other, according to the prosecutor.

Turkelson said no indictments were returned in an investigation of the county engineer's department, and possible indictments in an investigation of an alleged $90,550 shortage in the accounts of a former deputy auto registrar were deferred until later.

Rowe Given Post

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Edward Lee Rowe has been named president of the Carr-Lowrey Glass Co. in Baltimore, Md., replacing John F. Funkey, who has been named chairman of the firm, a division of Lancaster's Anchor-Hocking Corp.

"No, no," he said sharply. "It's all here. Don't say empty, please. My mother's gift must be in here." Mrs. Oglethorpe was sorry she had agreed to open the old place. This man could be dangerous.

She remained in the hall. He stooped to examine the old fireplace, as cold now as his memories. He went across the room, next to the bed. Four small bookshelves were built into a wall. "Here is where she kept everything precious to her," he said.

On the top shelf, he saw what he came for. It was an old cigar box, the lid warped so that the lifted top seemed about to say something. His hands trembled as he took it down.

Inside he saw an old darning egg for mending sox, an assortment of rusty needles and a small square of needlepoint. His throat choked as he lifted it out. Mrs. Oglethorpe saw the tears as he smiled.

"See?" he said proudly. "I told you she left something for me." He spread the needlepoint out and smoothed it. It said: "Above all, son, be a good boy."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When the economy was a full year into recession, some of the self-acknowledged experts were still debating whether there was a recession at all.

Now that there are definite signs that the recession is hitting bottom, and in some instances even rebounding a bit, some of the same observers are declaring the nation's troubles over.

The tendency is not limited to a few commentators, nor does it seem to be related to a person's station in life, other than for employment and politics. If you are employed you can afford to be optimistic; if your party is in power, you must be.

Alan Greenspan, the chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers comments that for all practical purposes the recession is over, while AFL-CIO head George Meany is agast at between 7.9 million and 8.5 million jobless.

Headline writers tend to get in the swing of things. So do those who conduct polls and surveys. So do the hucksters who want to spur sales.

Consumer confidence, as measured by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center, rebounded "sharply" in May. But note: It still resides at one of the lowest levels in three decades.

The results for May, said the authors of the study, remain "below the lowest point reached in any previous post-World War II recession." The recovery, therefore, "will be somewhat slow, rather than fast."

The National Association of Purchasing Management, a trade group, surveyed its members and found what is described as a surge of new orders. But the news really wasn't all that good.

The survey shows that 33 per cent reported increases in new orders during June, but that 20 per cent showed declines. Several areas of weakness were noted, in publishing, lumber, furniture and steel.

The nation's farms are expected to produce record harvests, and this might well be the case. But does this automatically mean lower food prices, as some expect, or instead will we be fed explanations of how drought or flood or blight or distribution problems aborted the high hopes?

Probably more important, will high oil prices disrupt the plans and forecasts? The situation is unstable from almost any perspective.

Without sufficient oil the U.S. economy cannot operate effectively or remain under control. And yet, there is a basic conflict between the country's energy policy and its economic policy.

That is, the country wants to put its under-utilized plants and idle workers to productive use, while at the same time trying to discourage, through high prices, the use of energy.

The existence of that high jobless rate, discouraging in itself, will also tend to hold back the economy. With the nation's labor force in excess of 90 million workers, a jobless rate of 7.5 per cent would mean close to seven million workers idle, unable to produce or to some extent, even consume.

Hoosier Corn Feeling Dryness

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Farm specialists at Purdue University say a shortage of topsoil moisture isn't serious yet but it could become so in 10 days.

Corn averages 45 inches high in Indiana, more than double the height at this time in 1974.

However, a week of hot, dry weather has caused some scattered damage.

Specialists said corn shows some signs of stress from deficient topsoil moisture, but it isn't critical yet.

The problem is mainly with corn. Soybeans are more resistant to the heat stress.

There are at least six mountain peaks in the Antarctica which are more than 13,000 feet high.

Today In History

In 1947, the engagement of Britain's Princess Elizabeth and Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten was announced.

In 1960, the Soviets threatened the United States with missiles if any attempt were made to oust the Castro government in Cuba.

In 1967, the U.S. assumed an active role in the Congo by sending three military transports to give President Mobutu logistic support in his fight against rebels.

Ten years ago: Democratic Senator Robert Kennedy urged that the U.S. emphasize political rather than military solutions for recurring revolutions in the emerging nations.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our 24-year-old son was rejected for insurance because he had abnormally high blood pressure. The day after the examination his own doctor took his blood pressure and it was normal. Does this mean that he will never be able to apply for insurance again?

Mr. and Mrs. T.R.U., Ohio

Dear Mr. and Mrs. U.: It is a common experience for the blood pressure to rise to abnormally high levels during periods of emotional stress and tension.

Anxiety and nervousness during a physical examination can produce wide fluctuations in blood pressure. This is especially true when the blood pressure reading is taken by a strange doctor.

The fact that the blood pressure was normal when taken by his own doctor indicates that no basic problem exists in your son's case. Nevertheless, a complete examination, including kidney function tests, if suggested by your doctor, should be done to make sure that there is no underlying problem.

Insurance companies are aware of temporary rises in blood pressure under stressful conditions. In the absence of any underlying disease there is no reason to assume that your son will be permanently rejected.

Is a painful spur of the heel a form of arthritis? What can be done to relieve the pain?

Mr. G.Z., N.J.

Dear Mr. Z.: Spurs are not generally considered to be arthritic in nature. They are deposits of calcium in the tendons and muscles of the heel.

They are frequently seen in people who are subjected to repeated injury. Athletes and professional dancers are prone to these painful spurs.

The pain can be relieved by protecting the heel with foam rubber sponges. The use of cortisone has been effective in some cases.

Surgery for the removal of spurs can be helpful in selected cases.

Use Of Drugs On Horses Would Be Banned In Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State representatives were slated to vote today on an emergency bill setting stiff penalties for use of drugs on horse and ponies entered in pull contests at state and county fairs.

Dr. Harry Goldstein, animal industries division chief in the Department of Agriculture, said the problem was illustrated by discovery that nine of eleven horses in competition at the 1974 Ohio State Fair had been "stimulated."

Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, the bill's sponsor, said similar incidents had been reported in Wood County and at other exhibitions in the northwestern part of the state.

Goldstein said the legislation, which could become effective in time for county fairs getting under way soon, would set penalties for use of drugs for the first time. "Now, all we can do is kick them off the grounds and tell them not to come back," he said.

Kurfess' bill sets the penalty and a fine up to $1,000 and six months imprisonment. It would not apply to racing horses already overseen by the state Racing Commission, or to other animals.

Goldstein, who functions as the state veterinarian, said the bill, as originally written, would have applied to other animals and precluded the possibility of them being treated when they became ill while at the fairs.

He said his main concern, in addition to "side bets" by those using drugs to stimulate their animals, is for the spectators. "Some of those horses were pretty well stimulated" at the state fair last year, he said.

Goldstein said the department currently has rules against the use of drugs, but that the law provides for no penalties. If Kurfess' bill is approved by the legislature and Gov. James A. Rhodes, it could be in use this summer.

The county fair season gets under way July 16 in Carroll County. Dates for the 1975 Ohio State Fair are Aug. 21 through Sept. 1.

2 Indicted For Theft

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — A seven-month investigation into the Warren County Water Department has culminated in the secret indictment of two former employees for theft in office.

The identities of the men, named by the county grand jury Tuesday, have not been released pending return of the warrants for their arrest, but arrangements are expected to be held Friday in Common Pleas Court here, according to Prosecutor Morris Turkelson.

The investigation began last December when county commissioners discovered alleged credit card and other abuses in the department and temporarily closed it. Four employees were subsequently dismissed and two of those four reportedly were the men indicted.

Seven of the charges were against one man and one against the other, according to the prosecutor.

Turkelson said no indictments were returned in an investigation of the county engineer's department, and possible indictments in an investigation of an alleged $90,550 shortage in the accounts of a former deputy auto registrar were deferred until later.

THE SUN'S OWN GEM

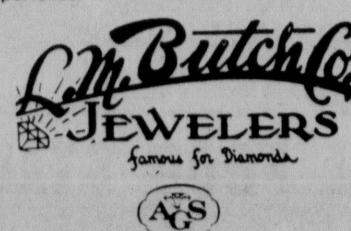

The birthstone long accepted for the July-born is ruby. The regal gem. The sun's own gem. Among the most precious of the earth's treasures, the largest-sized rubies (the likes of which are never seen outside of private collections and museums) often out-price diamonds of similar size. If you are born to wear ruby, may its fabled qualities of freedom, charity, dignity and power be imparted to you.

Ruby has a sister stone, the sapphire. They are both corundum, the same mineral. Deep red corundum is ruby. It is usually faceted, but can be cut en cabochon, in which case it will usually exhibit a six-rayed star.

The ancient and troubled Far East is the source for the most valuable, most beautiful ruby. The jungles of upper Burma (now hidden behind a "bamboo curtain") are known as the Mogok. This is the home for the fabulous pigeon-blood rubies. Although no outsider has seen the mines in many years, centuries-old techniques for getting the stones from the ground are most likely still used. Burma eschews technology in order to keep its people working.

Pits are dug into the earth. Bamboo is used as scaffolding material to prevent the slides from caving in. The walls are caulked with grass and leaves to slow the seepage. Burmese rubies (along with sapphire, jade and other native gemstones) are legally sold at a government-held emporium once a year. However, smuggling is rife. The gem dealers in bordering Thailand answer with a shrug when asked about their sources.

Much of my knowledge of gem lore comes from my training as an American Gem Society jeweler. I am not only trained in the technical aspects of my profession, I have background in the history and romance of jewelry, too. Buying rubies at L. M. Butch Co. can be an educational and a beautiful experience.

NANCY JILL PONTIUS

Pontius-Goldsberry Wedding Planned

Her fiancé is a 1972 graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek High School, attended Ohio University in Lancaster and is currently employed at Officer Outfitters in Columbus.

The tradition of open church will be observed at the Sept. 6th, wedding in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Route 2, Ashville.

THE SUN'S OWN GEM

The birthstone long accepted for the July-born is ruby. The regal gem. The sun's own gem. Among the most precious of the earth's treasures, the largest-sized rubies (the likes of which are never seen outside of private collections and museums) often out-price diamonds of similar size. If you are born to wear ruby, may its famed qualities of freedom, charity, dignity and power be imparted to you.

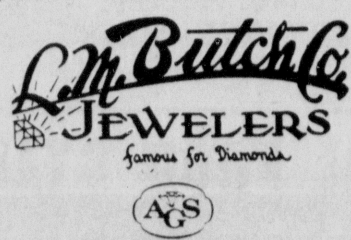

Ruby has a sister stone, the sapphire. They are both corundum, the same mineral. Deep red corundum is ruby. It is usually faceted, but can be cut en cabochon, in which case it will usually exhibit a six-rayed star.

The ancient and troubled Far East is the source for the most valuable, most beautiful ruby. The jungles of upper Burma (now hidden behind a "bamboo curtain") are known as the Mogok. This is the home for the fabulous pigeon-blood rubies. Although no outsider has seen the mines in many years, centuries-old techniques for getting the stones from the ground are most likely still used: Burma eschews technology in order to keep its people working.

Pits are dug into the earth. Bamboo is used as scaffolding material to prevent the sides from caving in. The walls are caulked with grass and leaves to slow the seepage.

Burmese rubies (along with sapphire, jade and other native gemstones) are legally sold at a government-held emporium once a year. However, smuggling is rife. The gem dealers in bordering Thailand answer with a shrug when asked about their sources.

Much of my knowledge of gem lore comes from my training as an American Gem Society jeweler. I am not only trained in the technical aspects of my profession, I have background in the history and romance of jewelry, too. Buying rubies at L. M. Butch Co. can be an educational and a beautiful experience.

Century 21 Helps Small Brokers

Wayne Weld, veteran Realtor in the Central Ohio area, announced today the launching of a national real estate franchise program in the Central Ohio area.

Known as Century 21 of Southern Ohio, Inc., the company is affiliated with the national Century 21 program which boasts being the largest real estate company in the country with over 1,250 offices throughout the United States, according to Weld, who is the president and regional director here.

The franchise program, simply put, would provide special services to the independent Realtor "to enable him to compete more effectively with the bigger firms." In this system each office is locally owned and controlled. The firm's slogan, "The best of two worlds," refers to the advantages of a large nationwide organization combined with independent local ownership.

The trend in real estate brokerage has been for a large broker or a chain operation to dominate a marketing area. "Additionally, the cost of doing business as a real estate broker has become so great," said Weld, "that many small and medium-size firms may find themselves going out of business in the next few years unless they get help. We believe the Century 21 organization will be able to give them the help they need at a cost they can afford."

The franchising program combines many features among which are a regional organization, full time recruiting and training staffs, multimedia advertising with emphasis on local television, mass purchasing power of supplies, coast to coast referral system, uniform "For Sale" signs, and a full complement of sales aids including cassettes, portable audio-visual equipment, brochures, and display boards. All this combines to create greater impact than can be done individually.

The program will be presented to area Realtors this month. "We have invited representatives of over 500 real estate firms in the central Ohio area to attend any one of three breakfast meetings July 22nd, 23rd, or 24th," Weld said. "The program will be outlined in detail at those meetings, and we expect to have a grand impact opening of Century 21 offices upon the signing of 30 offices."

Overall plans call for 90-100 offices in Central Ohio within five years and 10,000 offices nationwide by 1981.

Weld said he plans to establish the Century 21 Regional Office and training academy at 6797 N. High Street, Worthington.

Lot Split Requirements Checklist Is Available

The Pickaway County Regional Planning Commission has prepared a list of requirements and data necessary for approval of lot splits.

The checklist, which is available in the office of the Pickaway County Engineer, includes the minimum data necessary to evaluate most of new lot proposals.

The requirements are applicable to most new lots. However, certain sites by nature of their topography, location, and general character may be subject to additional sections of the Subdivision Regulations.

Land that comes under the general regulations regarding lot splits includes that which contains no more than four new lots or no more than five parcels comprising the original land.

Requirements for lot splitting are specific.

A survey sketch of the proposed lot and a sketch showing dimensions, boundaries, and the size of the existing parcel.

Approval of the Zoning Board for both the proposed lot and residual lot that is expressed by the inspector's signature on the deed of the new lot.

Approval of the County Board of Health of sewerage facilities for the intended use. The Board of Health determines if sewerage facilities that are suitable to the intended use can be installed on the site.

Lots must have a minimum width of 120 feet along a public road. If the proposed lot has central sewage and other improvements, the minimum width is reduced.

A 70-foot wide easement of access must be given to the county along surface drainage courses flowing adjacent to or through the proposed new lot. A planting restriction and building restriction will probably also be required.

An easement to be given to the county for trunks of agricultural tile systems is also required. The width will be determined by the Soil Conservation Service.

Easements of access across the proposed lot may also be required to be retained by the grantor in the case that the residual property is drained with surface swales or internally through tiling that crosses the proposed lot.

Utility easements may also be required, as well as deed accuracy.

Requested items include an easement for highway and utility purposes along existing public roads that conforms with the proposed Thoroughfare Plan, agreement concerning fences, and knowledge as to water capabilities.

Planning Commission zoning inspectors, who will act on lot split requests, are:

Paul Betz, Circleville Twp.; Bruce Ridgway, Darby Twp.; Karl Morrison, Deercreek Twp.; Grace Shirey, Harrison Twp.; Jean Justice, Jackson Twp.; Ralph McCain, Madison Twp.; Paul Houser, Monroe Twp.; Frank Longberry, Muhlenberg Twp.; Harvey Patterson, Perry Twp.; Merle McAfee, Pickaway Twp.; James Sealock, Scioto Twp.; Helen Noecker, Walnut Twp.; Jerry Winfough, Washington Twp.; and Jaunita Garrison, Wayne Twp.

ORDINANCE NO. 75-75
AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE MAYOR OR SAFETY DIRECTOR TO ENTER INTO A CONTRACT WITH CIRCLEVILLE TOWNSHIP FOR AND IN BEHALF OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE TO PROVIDE FIRE PROTECTION FOR SAID TOWNSHIP AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, the trustees of Circleville Township are desirous of continuing the use of the City of Circleville's Fire Department to provide fire protection of the township, the present contract expiring on June 30, 1975 and

WHEREAS, to provide for such fire protection, it is necessary to execute an agreement and contract between the city and township.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Circleville, State of Ohio:

SECTION 1: There be and hereby is set aside and appropriated the sum of $343.35 from the Federal Revenue Sharing Funds for payment to Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation as follows:

150.00 Title Insurance
150.00 Title examination fee
50.00 Closing costs
5.00 Title Insurance commitment fee
3.35 Recording and transfer cost
$343.35 Total

SECTION II: That this ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, and the emergency being necessary to authorize the payment of certain "closing costs". Whereupon, this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Century 21 Helps Small Brokers

Wayne Weld, veteran Realtor in the Central Ohio area, announced today the launching of a national real estate franchise program in the Central Ohio area.

Known as Century 21 of Southern Ohio, Inc., the company is affiliated with the national Century 21 program which boasts being the largest real estate company in the country with over 1,250 offices throughout the United States, according to Weld, who is the president and regional director here.

The franchise program, simply put, would provide special services to the independent Realtor "to enable him to compete more effectively with the bigger firms." In this system each office is locally owned and controlled. The firm's slogan, "The best of two worlds," refers to the advantages of a large nationwide organization combined with independent local ownership.

The trend in real estate brokerage has been for a large broker or a chain operation to dominate a marketing area. "Additionally, the cost of doing business as a real estate broker has become so great," said Weld, "that many small and medium-size firms may find themselves going out of business in the next few years unless they get help. We believe the Century 21 organization will be able to give them the help they need at a cost they can afford.

The franchising program combines many features among which are a regional organization, full time recruiting and training staffs, multimedia advertising with emphasis on local television, mass purchasing power of supplies, coast to coast referral system, uniform "For Sale" signs, and a full complement of sales aids including cassettes, portable audio-visual equipment, brochures, and display boards. All this combines to create greater impact than can be done individually.

The program will be presented to area Realtors this month. "We have invited representatives of over 500 real estate firms in the central Ohio area to attend any one of three breakfast meetings July 22nd, 23rd, or 24th," Weld said. "The program will be outlined in detail at those meetings, and we expect to have a grand impact opening of Century 21 offices upon the signing of 30 offices."

Overall plans call for 90-100 offices in Central Ohio within five years and 10,000 offices nationwide by 1981.

Weld said he plans to establish the Century 21 Regional Office and training academy at 6797 N. High Street, Worthington.

Lot Split Requirements Checklist Is Available

The Pickaway County Regional Planning Commission has prepared a list of requirements and data necessary for approval of lot splits.

The checklist, which is available in the office of the Pickaway County Engineer, includes the minimum data necessary to evaluate most of new lot proposals.

The requirements are applicable to most new lots. However, certain sites by nature of their topography, location, and general character may be subject to additional sections of the Subdivision Regulations.

Land that comes under the general regulations regarding lot splits includes that which contains no more than four new lots or no more than five parcels comprising the original land.

Requirements for lot splitting are specific.

They include:
A survey sketch of the proposed lot and a sketch showing dimensions, boundaries, and the size of the existing parcel.

Approval of the Zoning Board for both the proposed lot and residual lot that is expressed by the inspector's signature on the deed of the new lot.

Approval of the County Board of Health of sewerage facilities for the intended use. The Board of Health determines if sewage facilities that are suitable to the intended use can be installed on the site.

Lots must have a minimum width of 120 feet along a public road. If the proposed lot has central sewage and other improvements, the minimum width is reduced.

A 70-foot wide easement of access must be given to the county along surface drainage courses flowing adjacent to or through the proposed new lot. A planting restriction and building restriction will probably also be required.

An easement to be given to the county for trunks of agricultural tile systems is also required. The width will be determined by the Soil Conservation Service.

Easements of access across the proposed lot may also be required to be retained by the grantor in the case that the residual property is drained with surface swales or internally through tiling that crosses the proposed lot.

Utility easements may also be required, as well as deed accuracy.

Requested items include an easement for highway and utility purposes along existing public roads that conforms with the proposed Thoroughfare Plan, agreement concerning fences, and knowledge as to water capabilities.

Planning Commission zoning inspectors, who will act on lot split requests, are:

Paul Betz, Circleville Twp.; Bruce Ridgway, Darby Twp.; Karl Morrison, Deercreek Twp.; Grace Shirey, Harrison Twp.; Jean Justice, Jackson Twp.; Ralph McCain, Madison Twp.; Paul Houser, Monroe Twp.; Frank Longberry, Muhlenberg Twp.; Harvey Patterson, Perry Twp.; Merle McAfee, Pickaway Twp.; James Sealock, Scioto Twp.; Helen Noecker, Walnut Twp.; Jerry Winfough, Washington Twp.; and Jaunita Garrison, Wayne Twp.

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of Cincinnati by Ordinance No. 43-75 authorized the Mayor of the City of Cincinnati to contract for the purchase of real estate from the Shell Oil Company and the said contract requires in addition to the purchase price that the grantee pay certain closing costs, NOW THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CINCINNATI, STATE OF OHIO:
SECTION 1: There be and hereby is set aside and appropriated the sum of $343.35 from the Federal Revenue Sharing Funds for payment to Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation as follows:
$135.00 Title Insurance
150.00 Title examination fee
50.00 Closing costs
5.00 Title Insurance commitment fee

Nolan, Reds Stop Phils, 2-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gary Nolan just can't get any respect. Not from Philadelphia Phils' Manager Danny Ozark, anyway.

"He had about as much as our batting practice pitcher," said a tight-lipped Ozark after Nolan combined with reliever Rawly Eastwick to give the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the Phils Tuesday night.

Ozark watched in frustration as Nolan kept Philadelphia batters scoreless for six innings with a steady diet of tantalizing offspeed pitches. "All he throws is the atom ball—it goes right at somebody," said Ozark.

"Yah," countered a grinning Joe Morgan, "and he (Ozark) once said even he could hit Randy Jones." Reds Catcher Johnny Bench saw little humor in Ozark's remarks.

"Maybe they ought to start working out with their batting practice pitchers," said Bench. "And maybe we should start tomorrow's game at 6:25," a reference to the time set for pregame batting practice sessions. Nolan, who won his first game since June 12 after four straight fruitless starts, sidestepped the issue, saying "I don't have anything to say about what he thinks." A month ago Nolan, now 8-5, won six straight games before the victory drought. "Nothing is wrong with me. I feel great and have felt great all season. It was just one of those things," said the 27-year-old righthander who is attempting to bounce back after almost three years of forced inactivity due to a sore shoulder. Tuesday night, he gave up six hits in six and two third innings before Eastwick mopped up with two and a third innings of shutout ball. Manager Sparky Anderson elected to yank Nolan in the seventh when the Phils touched him for three hits and a run.

"I think in Sparky's eyes I was tired," said Nolan, who received fine defensive support. Ozark indicated Cincinnati was well-prepared for Philadelphia batters through recent scouting.

Anderson smiled and acknowledged that Cincinnati scoutscout Ray Shore had indeed received an updated report on the Phils. "There's no way to put a number of victories on what he's done for us, but Ray has won a lot of ballgames for us. We might change a little on the pitchers, but we stay basically with the defense he gives us," said Anderson.

The Reds also benefitted from control problems by starter Tom Underwood, 9-6, who walked six batters while Nolan walked none. Cincinnati scored single runs in the second and fourth innings, one on a bases-loaded walk by Underwood and the winner on Ken Griffey's 19th infield hit of the year. It scored Merv Rettenmund, who had walked and stole second.

Garry Maddox's run-scoring single produced the Phils' lone run. Jack Billington, 10-3, faces Jim Lonborg, 7-6, tonight as the Reds attempt to sweep the series and extend their winning streak to six.

Dodgers Blank Pirates

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Mike Marshall on the mound for the Los Angeles Dodgers is a sight for sore eyes — not to mention sore rib cages.

"Mike's healthy now, and when he's healthy he's one of the best," said Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston after his ace relief pitcher helped the Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0

Tuesday night. The broad-shouldered righthander looked like the Marshall of old, checking the Pirates on one hit over three innings after taking over for injured Don Sutton in the seventh inning.

Marshall, last year's Cy Young winner, has been having a painful season this year due to a rib injury. But he threw with ease in batting

Cincy Reds Bitter On Pitching Picks

CINCINNATI (AP) — Walter Alston's decision not to select any Cincinnati pitchers for the National League All-Star team has produced a bitter reaction from the Reds.

The Los Angeles manager's choices, which included Andy Messersmith, Don Sutton and Mike Marshall from his own team, were termed "a farce" by pitcher Jack Billington, 10-3, who had the best winning percentage in the National League going into Tuesday night's game.

"I'm not sure I should have made it," said Billington. "I'm having a good year as far as wins and losses go, but I don't necessarily think I'm having a good year."

The Reds righthander sports a 3.66 ERA, giving up 106 hits in 113 innings. Most of the complaints centered around the selection of Marshall, never a favorite of the Reds, rather than Will McEnaney, whose 1.38 ERA, prior to Tuesday, has made him the Reds' top reliever this year.

McEnaney, from Springfield, Ohio, is 3-1 in 37 appearances, and had not yielded a run in his last 12 games, covering 19 1-3 innings. He has yet to give up a home run and has been scored on only five occasions in his first major league season.

"I don't know where we'd be without him," said second baseman Joe Morgan. "If we don't have any All-Star pitchers, we'd better have all eight of our starting players on the team. Something has put us 8 1-2 in front."

Marshall also made the All-Star team last year, when he finished 15-12, making a record 106 appearances. This year he has missed part of the season due to an injury and currently stands 3-5 with a 3.00 ERA in 26 games.

"He was honored for what he did last year," said Reds manager Sparky Anderson.

"From what I can see, Alston is going with relief pitchers who he believes are the best over the past few years and hasn't considered what they have done this year," added Morgan. Philadelphia reliever Tug McGraw,

5-4 with a 2.50 ERA, also was picked for the team.

"The reason he picked Marshall," Billington remarked, "is that he thought he'd cry and wouldn't pitch for him. You pick an All-Star team on what the players have done this year and he didn't do it that way."

The 23-year-old McEnaney, who has not faced the Alston and the Dodgers since the second week of the season, said Marshall "isn't having an All-Star season." But, he added, "They can have the All-Star game. We'll take the fall classic."

Sweaty Palms Nervous

DEAR ABBY: A young lady wrote to you about her boyfriend's refusing to shake hands with anyone, and you said he probably had a "thing" about germs. That's possible, but there could also be another reason, one that's plagued me for years-sweaty palms. The only time my palms aren't wet is when I'm asleep. They even sweat in cold weather. In school, I used to wad up a handkerchief and keep it in my hand while I wrote. Otherwise, the sweat would drip off my palm onto the paper, and the ink would run. I hesitated to ask a girl to dance because I'd get the back of her dress wet before the first dance was over. And the hand I held would get wrinkled from sweat until it looked like she just did a sink full of dishes. No doctor has been able to help me,

U.S. Team Tops Poland In Track

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The American men's and women's track teams celebrated their 189-172 upset victory over Poland today with sightseeing in Prague and planning sessions for next week's meet in Durham, N.C., with the West Germans and Africans. "This meet was more of a team effort than our loss to the Russians," U.S. men's Coach Lee Calhoun of Yale University said of his squad's 113-102 victory in the two-day dual meet in Prague's Strahov Stadium. "It's exciting to see girls from all over the United States develop a team spirit during a close international competition," U.S. women's Coach Jack Griffin of Fredericksburg, Md., said after his charges rallied to beat the Poles 76-70 Tuesday night. The Americans also crushed the host Czechs in a simultaneous dual meet with a combined score of 213-148 in their first-ever dual meet. The Poles had been eager to beat the Americans and avenge a close 1965 loss, and they were installed as premeet favorites following the overwhelming 87-point U.S. loss to the Soviets last week in Kiev. But the Americans upset predictions by dominating the running events, winning every flat race but the men's 5,000 meters, and also posting some surprise victories and high placings in key field events.

DEAR PUZZLED: Why try to get around it? If an 84-year-old man doesn't mind being called "Daddy" by a 6-year-old, your 63-year-old husband shouldn't worry about introducing the boy as his brother. DEAR ABBY: I graduated from high school last June and sent out 48 announcements. I received 31 gifts and two cards. Later, someone said that sending out a graduation announcement is just like asking for a present. I really felt proud to be graduating and didn't think that sending an announcement would be like asking for a present. What do you think? GIRL GRADUATE DEAR GRADUATE: Sending announcements to relatives and very close friends is all right. But a good rule to follow is: When in doubt-don't. Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Nolan, Reds Stop Phils, 2-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gary Nolan just can't get any respect. Not from Philadelphia Phils' Manager Danny Ozark, anyway.

"He had about as much as our batting practice pitcher," said Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tom LaSorda. "He had about as much as our batting practice pitcher," said Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tom LaSorda.

Ozark watched in frustration as Nolan kept Philadelphia batters scoreless for six innings with a steady

diet of tantalizing offspeed pitches. "All he throws is the atom ball—it goes right at somebody," said Ozark. "Yah," countered a grinning Joe Morgan, "and he (Ozark) once said even he could hit Randy Jones." Reds Catcher Johnny Bench saw little humor in Ozark's remarks. "Maybe they ought to start working out with their batting practice pitchers," said Bench. "And maybe we should start tomorrow's game at 6:25," a reference to the time set for pregame batting practice sessions. Nolan, who won his first game since June 12 after four straight fruitless starts, sidestepped the issue, saying "I don't have anything to say about what he thinks." A month ago Nolan, now 8-5, won six straight games before the victory drought. "Nothing is wrong with me. I feel great and have felt great all season. It was just one of those things," said the 27-year-old righthander who is attempting to bounce back after almost three years of forced inactivity due to a sore shoulder. Tuesday night, he gave up six hits in six and two third innings before Eastwick mopped up with two and a third innings of shutout ball. Manager Sparky Anderson elected to yank Nolan in the seventh when the Phils touched him for three hits and a run. "I think in Sparky's eyes I was tired," said Nolan, who received fine defensive support. Ozark indicated Cincinnati was well-prepared for Philadelphia batters through recent scouting. Anderson smiled and acknowledged that Cincinnati scout Ray Shore had indeed received an updated report on the Phils. "There's no way to put a number of victories on what he's done for us, but Ray has won a lot of ballgames for us. We might change a little on the pitchers, but we stay basically with the defense he gives us," said Anderson. The Reds also benefitted from control problems by starter Tom Underwood, 9-6, who walked six batters while Nolan walked none. Cincinnati scored single runs in the second and fourth innings, one on a bases-loaded walk by Underwood and the winner on Ken Griffey's 19th infield hit of the year. It scored Merv Rettenmund, who had walked and stole second. Gary Maddox's run-scoring single produced the Phils' lone run. Jack Billington, 10-3, faces Jim Lonborg, 7-6, tonight as the Reds attempt to sweep the series and extend their winning streak to six.

Dodgers Blank Pirates

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Mike Marshall on the mound for the Los Angeles Dodgers is a sight for sore eyes — not to mention sore rib cages. "Mike's healthy now, and when he's healthy he's one of the best," said Los Angeles Manager Walt Alton after his ace relief pitcher helped the Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0

Tuesday night. The broad-shouldered righthander looked like the Marshall of old, checking the Pirates on one hit over three innings after taking over for injured Don Sutton in the seventh inning. Marshall, last year's Cy Young winner, has been having a painful season this year due to a rib injury. But he threw with ease in batting practice for 20 minutes before putting the Pirates down and out. In the other National League games, the San Diego Padres beat the Chicago Cubs 8-6 in 15 innings; the New York Mets stopped the Atlanta Braves 4-3; the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1; the Houston Astros turned back the Montreal Expos 5-1 and the San Francisco Giants downed the St. Louis Cardinals 6-4.

Cincy Reds Bitter On Pitching Picks

CINCINNATI (AP) — Walter Alton's decision not to select any Cincinnati pitchers for the National League All-Star team has produced a bitter reaction from the Reds.

The Los Angeles manager's choices, which included Andy Messersmith, Don Sutton and Mike Marshall from his own team, were termed "a farce" by pitcher Jack Billingham, 10-3, who had the best winning percentage in the National League going into Tuesday night's game.

"I'm not sure I should have made it," said Billingham. "I'm having a good year as far as wins and losses go, but I don't necessarily think I'm having a good year."

The Reds righthander sports a 3.66 ERA, giving up 106 hits in 113 innings. Most of the complaints centered around the selection of Marshall, never a favorite of the Reds, rather than Will McEnaney, whose 1.38 ERA, prior to Tuesday, has made him the Reds' top reliever this year.

McEnaney, from Springfield, Ohio, is 3-1 in 37 appearances, and had not yielded a run in his last 12 games, covering 19 1-3 innings. He has yet to give up a home run and has been scored on on only five occasions in his first major league season.

"I don't know where we'd be without him," said second baseman Joe Morgan. "If we don't have any All-Star pitchers, we'd better have all eight of our starting players on the team. Something has put us 8 1-2 in front."

Marshall also made the All-Star team last year, when he finished 15-12, making a record 106 appearances. This year he has missed part of the season due to an injury and currently stands 3-5 with a 3.00 ERA in 26 games.

"He was honored for what he did last year," said Reds manager Sparky Anderson.

"From what I can see, Alton is going with relief pitchers who he believes are the best over the past few years and hasn't considered what they have done this year," added Morgan. Philadelphia reliever Tug McGraw,

Fugitives Still Sought By Officers

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The two men who abducted two sheriff's deputies and escaped from the Warren County Jail Monday were part of a shoplifting ring from Lexington, Ky., according to Warren County Sheriff Roy Wallace.

"They had been hitting everything along the interstates from Lexington north," Wallace said Tuesday about the men who were arrested for shoplifting at a department store in the Towne Mall near Middletown.

Police were still searching for the men, identified as William Relford, 26, and Walter Christian, 32, both of Lexington.

The pair, while they were being booked Monday evening, abducted two sheriff's deputies and fled in a county cruiser which they later abandoned.

Wallace said after fleeing the cruiser, the pair, armed with a .38-caliber revolver from one of the deputies, pulled Steve Helsing, of Middletown, over and forced him at gunpoint to drive them to Dayton. Then they released the 16-year-old youth who returned to Lebanon.

"I heard a click, the door opened and then someone jumped in the car and said, 'drive.' I drove a few feet, and then he said 'stop' and another guy got in," said Helsing, who reported being a "little bit nervous" about the incident.

Oat Nematode Worry To Farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Agriculture Director John M. Stackhouse has asked small grain farmers to watch for signs of an oat cyst nematode, a new and highly destructive pest that has invaded the United States.

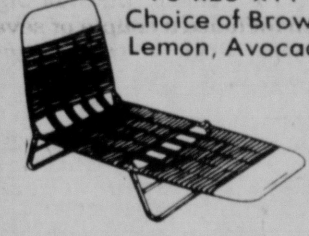

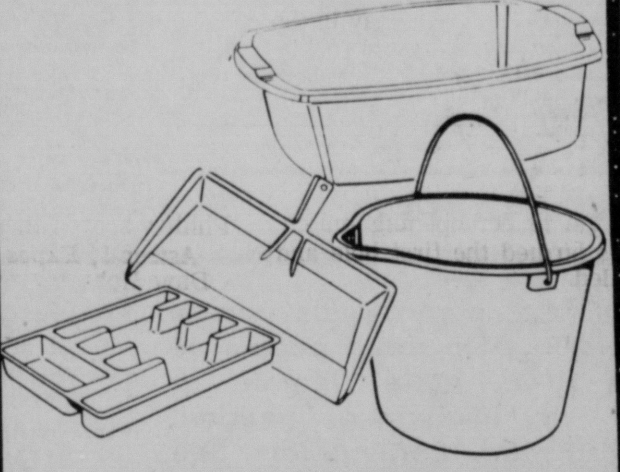

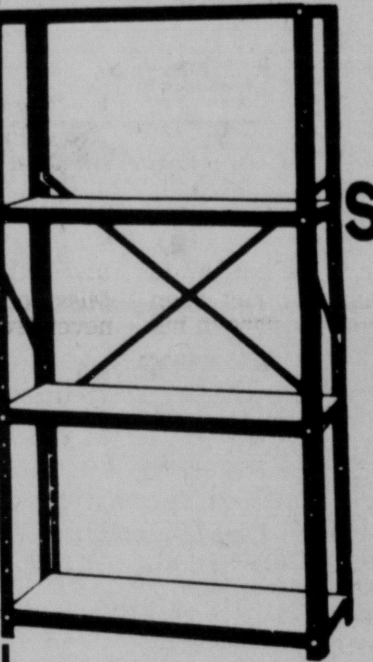

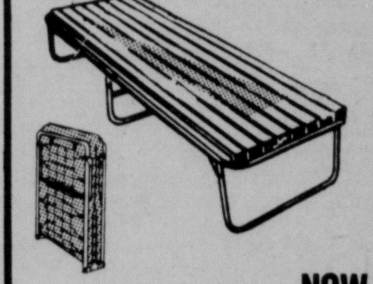

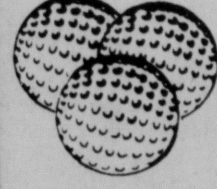

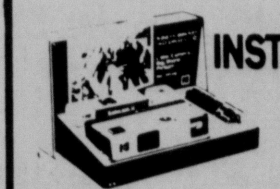

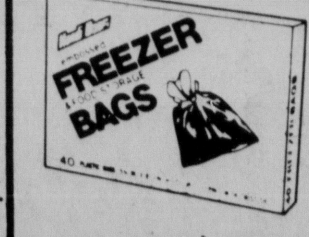

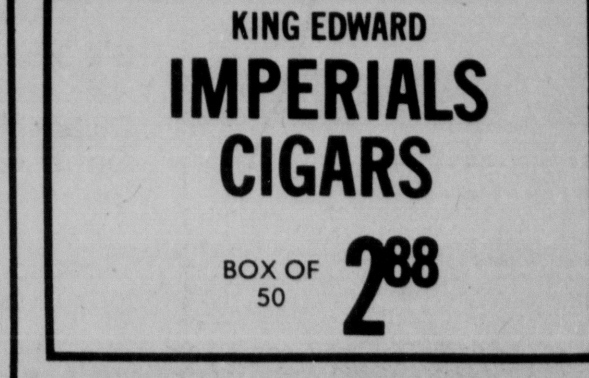

Stackhouse said the nematode, or eelworm, attacks oats, wheat, barley and rye crops. It was discovered in Oregon last year. He said the worm could feed undetected on plant roots for years before detected.

Your Horoscope Tiger

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You may now be the recipient of some "inside information" regarding a business deal. If your "source" is reliable, act promptly.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): This could be a day of great personal achievement. Make plans for attaining cherished objectives, but don't expect the unreasonable.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): A period for ACTION! Put all you have into day's endeavors: Your best thoughts, plans, efforts. Look for the unexpected, and appreciate all - even the challenges.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You may be tempted to dodge obligations, to "take off" on tangents. DON'T! This is a day in which you can only achieve through stick-to-it-iveness.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): The restrained, quiet approach to situations will win over more people and points than any other way now. But inner spunk and enthusiasm will also count.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A brand new financial start indicated - accompanied by high hopes, which CAN be realized. You MUST take the initiative, however - and confidently.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Willingness to listen even though you "know the answers" will pay off in unexpected but delightful ways. You can attain new friends, prestige.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): There's a tendency now to take off on tangents or useless ventures if you don't keep your mind on immediate objectives. Let moderation be your keyword today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): There will be more to this day than is obvious at first, so dig deep for hidden treasures, and have faith that you will succeed. Don't overshoot safe marks, however.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some persons may act in a manner not fully anticipated. Do not let this throw you off balance or offset your innate tolerance and understanding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some planetary restrictions. Be cautious in making investments, and DO control emotions. Some situations will call for unusual tact.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A suggestion to which you have not given much previous thought could, quite unexpectedly, open new doors to progress. Pull it out of your files.

YOU BORN TODAY are blessed with a fine intellect, a quite lively imagination, extraordinary intuition and unusually high standards and principles. You have keen sense of justice and would make an outstanding lawyer, jurist; could also succeed in science, journalism or in the field of invention. You are extremely conventional and conservative; inclined, however, to actually suffer when others do not live up to your high ideals. Try to master such sensitivity and develop a sense of "live and let live." In this way, you will enjoy life more fully and help others to do the same. Birthdate of: William Blackstone, writer on law; David Brinkley, TV news commentator.

Your Horoscope Tiger

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You may now be the recipient of some "inside information" regarding a business deal. If your "source" is reliable, act promptly.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): This could be a day of great personal achievement. Make plans for attaining cherished objectives, but don't expect the unreasonable.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): A period for ACTION! Put all you have into day's endeavors. Your best thoughts, plans, efforts. Look for the unexpected, and appreciate all — even the challenges.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You may be tempted to dodge obligations, to "take off" on tangents. DON'T! This is a day in which you can only achieve through stick-to-it-iveness.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): The restrained, quiet approach to situations will win over more people and points than any other way now. But inner spunk and enthusiasm will also count.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A brand new financial start indicated — accompanied by high hopes, which CAN be realized. You MUST take the initiative, however — and confidently.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Willingness to listen even though you "know the answers" will pay off in unexpected but delightful ways. You can attain new friends, prestige.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): There's a tendency now to take off on tangents or useless ventures if you don't keep your mind on immediate objectives. Let moderation be your keyword today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): There will be more to this day than is obvious at first, so dig deep for hidden treasures, and have faith that you will succeed. Don't overshoot safe marks, however.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some persons may act in a manner not fully anticipated. Do not let this throw you off balance or offset your innate tolerance and understanding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some planetary restrictions. Be cautious in making investments, and DO control emotions. Some situations will call for unusual tact.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A suggestion to which you have not given much previous thought could, quite unexpectedly, open new doors to progress. Pull it out of your files.

YOU BORN TODAY are blessed with a fine intellect, a quite lively imagination, extraordinary intuition and unusually high standards and principles. You have keen sense of justice and would make an outstanding lawyer, jurist; could also succeed in science, journalism or in the field of invention. You are extremely conventional and conservative; inclined, however, to actually suffer when others do not live up to your high ideals. Try to master such sensitivity and develop a sense of "live and let live." In this way, you will enjoy life more fully and help others to do the same. Birthdate of: William Blackstone, writer on law; David Brinkley, TV news commentator.

Guardisman Tells Of Fright

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gunfire that should have scared off demonstrators at Kent State University five years ago instead scared an Ohio National Guardsman into ejecting bullets from his rifle so he couldn't fire more than one shot, a federal court jury was told Tuesday.

"I thought we were firing to scare the students," said former guardsman Robert L. James of Fredericksburg. "When I saw a person fall, it scared me.

"I saw the person fall, and I just wanted to empty my weapon," the 31-year-old agricultural researcher told the jury. "I wanted to be sure I couldn't fire another round."

But James said tear gas had not dispersed the crowd and the troops did not dare let the protestors get close enough to use rifle butts or bayonets on them.

The panel of seven men and five women deciding claims for $46 million in damages stemming from the shooting also heard former guardsman Leon Smith say he feared the guardsmen would be overrun. The Beach City meatcutter said he feared he might lose his weapon to students protesting U.S. military activity in Southeast Asia.

Smith said he fired three rounds from a shotgun, two warning shots in the air and one in the direction of a student threatening him with a rock or brick.

The birdshot fired from the shotgun couldn't have hurt anyone 100 feet away, Smith said, but in describing the threat posed by the student he described their distance apart as that between the witness chair and a lawyer less than 20 feet away.

U.S. District Court Judge Don Young agreed to admit the two former guardsmen's accounts of the shootings as evidence, although ostensibly only to permit the jury to judge the credibility of the witnesses.

Four students were killed and nine were wounded in the 13-second volley May 4, 1970. Victims and their families brought the damages suit.

Gov. James Rhodes, one of 42 present and former state officials and guardsmen who are defendants, sat in on the afternoon session. Rhodes, who was making his third appearance in the courtroom since the jury was seated seven weeks ago, ordered troops to Kent during a weekend of rioting.

He heard former Kent State yearbook photographer Ronald P. McNees of Kent identify photos he took of events May 4, 1970, and testify there was no rush of students toward guardsmen in the moments before the shooting broke out.

In opening statements, defense attorneys referred to a surge of demonstrators that might have sparked the shootings.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retail sales increased 7 per cent in May from the previous month, the Ohio State University Center for Business and Economic Research said.

The center said most businesses had seasonally-adjusted sales substantially above the April level. Most were recorded by food stores, automotive stores and paint, glass and wallpaper stores.

Six of the 25 business lines covered by the study showed sales declines from April. Fuel dealers reported the largest drop, 21 per cent.

Furniture stores reported a 9 per cent drop. Motor vehicle dealers and filling stations' sales recorded a 1 per cent drop but were up 3 per cent and 9 per cent respectively from May 1974.

Sales for the first five months of the year compared to the same period last year were up 3 per cent.

City Board Sets Budget Hearing

The annual budget hearing for the Circleville School District will be held Thursday evening during the regular board meeting. The meeting will convene at 7:30 p.m.

Also on the advanced agenda submitted to the board members by Superintendent Fritz Jacobs was several repair items. Included on the list are installation of a new vinyl floor at the Atwater kindergarten room, restoration of the Corwin Street playground area, possible remodeling of the supervisor's and clerk's offices, and painting of a portion of the High Street building.

Jacobs also indicated on his agenda that he may have a recommendation for the principal's position at South Court Street Elementary.

Bids for the school bus and other vehicle insurance and the trash hauling contract will be reviewed during the monthly meeting.

One supplemental contract, a change in the assignment of a custodian and the employment of additional secretarial help will complete the items to be presented to the board.

Lightning Strikes Residence

Lightning struck the Robert Harris home, 601 Elm Ave., this morning at 8:17 a.m. The Circleville Fire Department was called to the scene where the lightning had run down the television antenna and blew the plaster off the wall.

No exact estimate was made on the damages but a spokesman for the department said this morning that the damage was light.

A car fire was reported to firemen Tuesday evening at 8:55 p.m. The auto was owned by Ronnie Stevens, 401 N. Scioto St. Damages were light.

Bike Rider Hurt

Fourteen-year-old Peter Harrison, 312 Northridge Rd., suffered a minor injury to his right elbow when his bicycle was struck by a car 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Harrison, on his bicycle, was sitting at the intersection of S. Pickaway and E. Main Sts., according to Circleville Police, in the curb lane beside a car driven by Harold O. Grant, 222 S. Pickaway St.

When the light changed, Harrison pedaled across the intersection, but Grant made a right turn into the path of the bicycle.

Vo School Adopts Budget

In a special meeting Monday, the Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School Board held its annual budget hearing and adopted a figure of $1,636,490 for the general fund. Superintendent Paul Hydel explained that this amount represents the estimated expenditures for the fiscal year.

In other action during the special meeting, the board employed Joseph Taylor, Kingston, to replace a custodian who had resigned earlier. Also employed was Joyce L. Brown as developmental reading instructor.

With the employment of Ms. Brown, the board has completed its staffing for the 1975-76 school year except for teachers for drafting and electricity.

Fred Tomastik, was employed on June 30 as a horticulture instructor. The announcement was made today because the new teacher had been on vacation and had not had the chance to notify his former employer.

A letter was read to the board advising the members of Mrs. Bonnie Hildenbrand's appointment to replace Nelson Stevens on the board.

The next regularly scheduled meeting is 8 p.m. on July 17.

Red Cross Swim Program Needs Aides

The second two-week session of Red Cross Swimming Lessons are now underway. Due to vacations and other conflicts, many of the aides from the previous session cannot now teach.

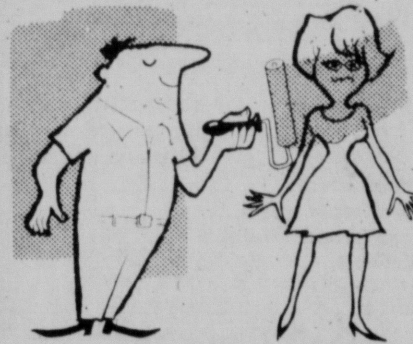

There are presently only five aides and one Water Safety Instructor for the 80 children registered in the two beginner classes now being taught. For an efficiently running program, there should be at least 14 aides along with one or two Water Safety Instructors.

Without a sufficient number of aides, the children are simply not given the attention they need in order to learn to swim well. Help is urgently needed.

Anyone who has completed the Red Cross Swimmers of Life Saving courses or is an equally good swimmer is qualified to be an aide. The remaining sessions are from now through July 18 and July 21-Aug. 1 with the Beginner classes being taught from 9:45-10:30 a.m. and 10:30-11:15 a.m.

If you would like to be an aide for any or all of these sessions, please contact the Red Cross office immediately at 474-5736. Your services will be greatly appreciated by the children, their parents and their instructors.

Rhodes Glad Ford Plans Campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Ford's formal announcement of his candidacy for election in 1976 was greeted with enthusiasm by Gov. James A. Rhodes Tuesday.

Rhodes termed the announcement "good news in the industrial heartland of this nation, where we live by the values Gerald Ford holds important," and pledged the support of the Ohio Republican Party.

Rhodes said Ford has worked sincerely to deal with problems of unemployment, inflation and energy.

"Gerald Ford is tackling these problems in a forthright manner which is typical of everything he does," Rhodes said.

Meanwhile, Miami County's Republican chairman, state Rep. Robert E. Netzley, R-81 Laura, was less enthusiastic about Ford's candidacy.

The conservative legislator said he prefers former Gov. Ronald Reagan of California as the party's standardbearer, but said the President has done an "acceptable job" and he could support him.

Netzley said he still is not convinced Ford will remain in the race, speculating that the President could drop out because of his wife's health.

"He may step aside later and try to push Rockefeller off on us," Netzley said. "I wouldn't go for that."

Ohio Nursing Homes Get Ombudsman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's 60,000 nursing home patients and their families will be represented by an ombudsman under a federal grant from the Administration on Aging.

Martin Janis, director of the Ohio Commission on Aging, said Tuesday the $29,574 award would be used to establish a one-year advocacy program.

The ombudsman will represent nursing home patients in dealing with the industry and government agencies and will also assist in legislative efforts, Janis said.

"The problems of long-term care for our elderly cannot be solved entirely by a one-year program," the director said. "However, protection for a defenseless segment of our population who are desperately in need of help must surely be within the realm of possibility and must be the overriding purpose of this project."

The federal government also provided the state with $65,838 to set up an in-service training program for employees at senior citizen nutrition projects, Janis said.

The training will include sanitation, food handling, safety and use of commodity foods, according to Janis.

PUCO Approves Rate Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio Tuesday granted Columbia Gas of Ohio permission to increase rates in 11 Franklin County communities outside Columbus to allow for a 7.7 per cent rate of return.

Columbia had requested a rate increase based on a 10.5 per cent rate of return, but the commission rejected that, saying it was "unnecessarily high."

The increase approved will provide an additional $552,827. The rate sought by the company would have generated an additional $979,491.

Communities affected are Westerville, Valleyview, Obetz, Bexley, Minerva Park, Riverlea, New Albany, Gahanna, Upper Arlington, Marble Cliff and Grandview Heights.

SPECIAL SHOWING—Mary Cooper, a Chillicothe artist, discusses the placement of her work in The Gallery on Main Street with member Maggie Farthing. Mrs. Cooper will host a special showing and sale of her work Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Gallery, and her works will be on display until July 27. She combines tiles, stone, wood and pieces of natural items to create her works, which is also available at The Garden Gallery," a studio in Chillicothe where visitors can browse in the garden and showroom and meet the artist at work Wednesday and Friday afternoons. She is also represented at Helen Winnemore's in German Village.

Guardsman Tells Of Fright

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gunfire that should have scared off demonstrators at Kent State University five years ago instead scared an Ohio National Guardsman into ejecting bullets from his rifle so he couldn't fire more than one shot, a federal court jury was told Tuesday.

"I thought we were firing to scare the students," said former guardsman Robert L. James of Fredericksburg. "When I saw a person fall, it scared me.

"I saw the person fall, and I just wanted to empty my weapon," the 31-year-old agricultural researcher told the jury. "I wanted to be sure I couldn't fire another round."

But James said tear gas had not dispersed the crowd and the troops did not dare let the protestors get close enough to use rifle butts or bayonets on them.

The panel of seven men and five women deciding claims for $46 million in damages stemming from the shooting also heard former guardsman Leon Smith say he feared the guardsmen would be overrun. The Beach City meatcutter said he feared he might lose his weapon to students protesting U.S. military activity in Southeast Asia.

Smith said he fired three rounds from a shotgun, two warning shots in the air and one in the direction of a student threatening him with a rock or brick.

The birdshot fired from the shotgun couldn't have hurt anyone 100 feet away, Smith said, but in describing the threat posed by the student he described their distance apart as that between the witness chair and a lawyer less than 20 feet away.

U.S. District Court Judge Don Young agreed to admit the two former guardsmen's accounts of the shootings as evidence, although ostensibly only to permit the jury to judge the credibility of the witnesses.

Four students were killed and nine were wounded in the 13-second volley May 4, 1970. Victims and their families brought the damages suit.

Gov. James Rhodes, one of 42 present and former state officials and guardsmen who are defendants, sat in on the afternoon session. Rhodes, who was making his third appearance in the courtroom since the jury was seated seven weeks ago, ordered troops to Kent during a weekend of rioting.

He heard former Kent State yearbook photographer Ronald P. McNees of Kent identify photos he took of events May 4, 1970, and testify there was no rush of students toward guardsmen in the moments before the shooting broke out.

In opening statements, defense attorneys referred to a surge of demonstrators that might have sparked the shootings.
